LOCAL LACONICS

A Continued Story of Local Happenings That Are of Interest to Our Many Readers.....

Then drag the roads! Remember the Fourth at Dresden.

Mrs. S. P. Scott has returned from Memphis.

See our larder collars; they are the last word in style.—Al Gardner.

Mrs. Annie Oliver is reported very low of flux at her home, near Ore Springs.

Mrs. J. P. Frazier, of Comfort Texas, has been visiting her niece, Mrs. W. W. Fuller.

See the big new stock of voile, 36 inches wide, only 25 cents per yard.—Al Gardner.

Children's day services will be held at Travis Chapel church Sunday afternoon, beginning promptly at 2 o'clock.

Protracted meeting at Hatler's Chapel will begin on July 2, continuing over two Sunday's, services day and night, conducted by Bro. C. L. Wilkerson. Everybody come.

Mr. Will Maxey, the courteous, accommodating salesman for Winstead & Jones, Latham, is driving about in a brand-new car, a Ford, purchased a few days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling McCuan, Mrs. B. D. Gibbs, Misses Sara Maloan and Martha Nix motored over to Martin Tuesday night and attended the revival being conducted by Rev. Hardeman in the Second Christian church there.

THAT FOURTH OF JULY PICNIC

will need all the good things to eat that are shown in the picture, and many more besides. They can all be found at our store, and we will pack them right into your basket, all ready for frolic. Place your order early, for we'll be busy, for people know what good things can be purchased from us.

FULLER BROS.

Old-time Fourth of July celebration at Dresden.

See those $1.50 waists for only $1.00, at Al Gardner's store.

Miss Lula Douglass, of Hickman, Ky., is visiting Miss Rebecca Lewis.

Al Gardner sells trunks and suit cases cheap. See them, at Al Gardner's.

Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Jenkins, of Clinton, Ky., have been here the guests of Messrs. Bob and Ea Jeter.

Esq. J. C. Caudle, a former member of the county court, was a very pleasant visitor in Dresden on Tuesday, accompanied by Mrs. Caudle.

Mr. Bill Taylor, a substantial farmer and good citizen residing several miles east of Dresden, is very low. Mr. Taylor is eighty-odd years of age, and his recovery is doubtful.

The son of Tom McDaniel, residing at Joe Outen's, north of town, fractured a bone in his leg Tuesday, when he jumped into a gulley. Dr. Fields dressed the wound.

At the close of the tobacco season, Mr. F. C. Ezell, as is his annual custom, gave his hands a big barbecue dinner at the barn one day last week. Besides the abundance of barbecued meats, there were cold drinks and genuine good cheer.

Skirts, skirts; white gaberdine skirts, $1.25 to $1.75 each, at Al Gardner's.

Deputy Sheriff Ned Hatcher came over from Greengold on Wednesday with a whole buggy load of vegetables—beans, English peas, potatoes, and so on—for the prisoners at the jail. Ned says his garden is affording an abundance of fine vegetables and that he thought the jail crew would enjoy some of his products.

Supt. Fuqua is hard at work on a map showing the location of all the school buildings of the county and the public roads. He will use this in his address before the state superintendents' meeting, to be held in Memphis on July 10, 11 and 12. This will doubtless be a profitable meeting of the school superintendents, and it is a compliment to Weakley county that our very efficient superintendent has been invited to address the body.

I will take eggs, lard, middlings and hams in trade.—R. L. Jeter.

Do you want a white dress? Buy the new goods from Al Gardner.

Wanted.—Ten gallons nice, well-picked blackberries.—Joe. L. Holbrook.

Miss, Nettie Hamilton attended the Epworth league conference in Dyersburg the first of the week.

White rabbits for sale by Joe C. Holbrook, Dresden, at $1 per pair. Nothing nicer for pets for children. 14-3t.

On account of the big rain last Saturday, the box supper planned for that night at McClain's Chapel, was postponed to next Saturday night, which is tomorrow night, when all are invited to attend.

Mr. D. J. Hall, of Arkansas, and Miss Lillian Virginia Wingo, youngest daughter of Mr. Theodore Wingo, Martin, were united in marriage Thursday morning at the Methodist church in Martin, leaving on the first train for a bridal tour.

If you are desiring to purchase a good producing farm this year, we call your attention to the advertising of D. A. Burkhalter, McKenzie, found in this issue. He is offering one of the best farms in Weakley county for sale. Be sure you read mention of same found on another page.

Information reached here several days ago from Doniphan, Mo., of the loss by fire of the home of Mrs. S. E. Snowden, formerly of this county. Mrs. Snowden lost her home and entire contents. She was reared here by the mother of Messrs. George and M. A. Shanklin, of the Fourth district. Her maiden name was Ellen Jones.

Don't take that trip until you buy a new suit case or bag from Al Gardner.

Mr. John Hawks, eighty-nine years of age, died Tuesday at his home in the Latham vicinity, his death being due to the infirmities incident to advanced age. Mr. Hawks had resided in that community for a long number of years and was a most prominent man there. He came to this county many years ago from North Carolina.

Mr. J. L. Ross, who has been local manager and night operator of Cumberland telephone company here for several weeks, resigned his position on Monday and is succeeded by Frank Mangum, who will be night operator. Mr. Ross made many friends among our people who regret his departure. He is a likeable young man and we wish him health, wealth and prosperity wherever he may go.

We have a full line of the famous keep-cool clothes for the hot weather that we are selling very low.—R. L. Jeter.

Mr. Cellars Hansbrough, a deserving young man of Sharon, clerking for J. H. Parrish, and Miss Charlie McDearmon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley McDearmon, were united in the holy bonds of wedlock at the home of the bride's parents in Sharon on last Sunday afternoon, Rev. Mecoy officiating. After the ceremony the happy pair left for Nashville for a short stay. They are numbered among Sharon's most popular young people, and their host of friends unite in wishing for them a long life of married bliss.

I have many ladies' ready-made skirts that I want to close out now. See my line if you need a skirt.—R. L. Jeter.

Mr. G. W. Smith was here Monday from near Ralston and reports a terrific down-pour, of rain in his vicinity on Thursday of last week. Mr. Smith says there was at least a foot and a half more water in his bottom field than he ever saw there before. He says the wind blew the buggy shed and crib of Albert Babb down again. These were demolished just a few weeks ago by the hard wind. Lightning killed two cows belonging to John Baker in that vicinity and a vast amount of damage was done to growing crops, fences and timber.
